He will leave for there tomorrow.

Secretary E. R. McDowell, of the Prescott Athletic club, received word today that the heavy apparatus for the gymnasium had been shipped from the factory at Chicago February 18, but has probably been delayed by the heavy freight gorge that has been on so long in the east. It ought to be here any day now. The lighter articles, such as gloves, folk, etc., were shipped from Denver the 21st of February and are also considerably overdue.

Prof. A. J. Mathews, of the Tempe normal school came up from the south Saturday afternoon on a business trip and a brief visit with his host of friends in Prescott. He was accompanied by his brother-in-law, J. H. McDonough, who arrived in Arizona a few weeks ago from Newark, New Jersey, to look up a location for a large steam laundry. Mr. McDonough has been conducting a very large institution of this kind in the east, running from seven to ten wagons. He likes Prescott very much and may decide to locate here. Prof. Mathews will return to Tempe today.

Joe Hobbs had an experience Saturday evening when he was near being a serious one. He was coming down a hill with a load of dirt and his little daughter who was on the seat with him, began to fall. He grabbed at her to save her from falling and this slackened the reins so the horses started to run. Mr. Hobbs succeeded in saving the little one from falling then but lost his balance and fell over the front of the wagon the wheels passing over his legs. The horses then kept on running till the little girl fell out over the front and the wheels passed over her body. Mr. Hobbs is not seriously hurt, no bones having been broken and he is able to set up today. The Journal-Miner could not learn the names of the little girl's injuries further than they are not thought to be serious.

Rev. Leon Lewis, pastor West Prescott Methodist church, preached last night from the 7th and 8th verses of the twentieth Psalm. "Some trust in chariots and some in horses, but we will remember the name of our Lord: They are brought down and fallen; but we are risen and stand upright." The idea that Christians are the only people who have and exercise faith, and trust is quite erroneous. All people have faith or are imbecile. Almost nothing is known without faith. Without trust, without confidence to trust, complications would be endless. So all have trust. It is not whether we trust but whom we will trust and in what we put our trust. Chariots and horses stand for temporal forces. God is an eternal power. Charities and horses stand for like human help have an end and stand sometimes powerless. God is infinite and is a very present help in trouble. Many say, well, if there is no hereafter I am as well off as the one who knows and acknowledges no God. And if there is an after life, he is fixed for I trust in God. Oh, the magic of his name. How it helps to "remember the name of our Lord." We get strength in weakness, comfort in sorrow, joy in grief, quiet in unrest. God is all in all.

The bill is now before the council, and Col. Wilson's paper, in its Sunday issue makes a strong plea for members of the council to do justice to Secretary Stoddard by amending the bill. It contains no suggestion as to what injustice is inflicted on the secretary by the bill, or as to how it should be amended to do justice to him and at the same time do justice to the territory.

Col. Wilson was elected as delegate to the national convention of the Red Men lodge tonight on account of the grand St. Patrick's day ball which will be given in the I. O. O. F. hall. Great preparations have been made and one of the grandest times of the season is expected to be had by the wearers of the green tonight. The committee of arrangements have secured both halls for this occasion and the ladies will serve a fine supper for the hungry revelers.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Porter, father and mother of Frank Porter, the popular secretary and treasurer of the Sanel Hill Hardware company, left this morning for their home in Utah. They will be absent for a few days. Mr. Porter is visiting with his son and his family in Prescott. Mr. and Mrs. Porter are delighted with this country and especially Prescott, and will undoubtedly return here again at some future time for a visit if not to make this their home.

The spirit of patriotism has taken special hold on about two dozen boys of Prescott, Arizona, who have organized themselves into a militia company and have daily drills. They have the soldier leggings, canteens, knapsacks and guns but as yet have not purchased uniforms. The officers are, captain, Albert Fern, a military school graduate, and first lieutenant, Thomas Coleman; second lieutenant, Charles Heala. Considering his youth Captain Fern is well versed in military tactics and he maintains the strictest discipline among his youthful soldiers. The boys present a very good appearance in their marches and drills.

There has been very little said concerning the school election which takes place this Saturday in this month, or the 28th of the month this year. The schools of Prescott are among her proudest possessions and their welfare should not be overlooked. They have been running along harmoniously for the past four years that people have almost quit thinking about them other than that they were in good hands and were being improved and enlarged every year. This is all right, but the school board of the public schools is so great that it is well for all school citizens to keep them ever in mind and be ready at any time to give assistance wherever and whenever needed.

Sheriff Joe Roberts is laid up with a very sore arm the result of an accident at Bisbee. He was entering a restaurant there behind another man, when the man in front of him let the swinging door fly back with great force. Roberts put his hand to catch the door, expecting the wooden part of it to strike his hand. His attention was involuntarily attracted to something else. Instead of striking the wooden part of the door his left hand and arm came in contact with the door breaking it, the glass cutting four tendons and an artery. The wound is a very serious one and will to a certain extent cripple his hand for life provided nothing more serious occurs, which is not probable as he is getting along very nicely.

A special train bearing the visiting members of the Development Company of America, and prospective investors, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Beaton and Opha Moore, of New York, C. F. ## A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

One of the planks in the democratic platform called for diverting all fees of territorial officials into the treasury, and for paying the official a salary.

In accordance with this plank, house bill number 14, known as the Cowan bill, was introduced early in the session. It provides for transferring the fees of the territorial secretary, received for articles of incorporation from the secretary's pocket to the territorial treasury. It may be remarked here that with this business "cut out" the fees of the secretary's office would still amount to from $5000 to $8000 per year.

The house was overwhelmingly democratic but this bill met with a cold reception in the home of its friends, even the immaculate platform support of Keane St. Charles, joining in an onslaught against it.

It was finally passed, after one of the most disgraceful scenes ever enacted on the floor of an Arizona legislative hall, some of the members being in a disgraceful state of intoxication.

The bill is now before the council, and Col. Wilson's paper, in its Sunday issue makes a strong plea for members of the council to do justice to Secretary Stoddard by amending the bill. It contains no suggestion as to what injustice is inflicted on the secretary by the bill, or as to how it should be amended to do justice to him and at the same time do justice to the territory.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The council yesterday made a march on the house in the matter of the woman suffrage bill. It has been the custom for years for the lower house to pass a woman suffrage bill, many parties who are not in favor of it voting for its passage and then depending on the council to defeat it. The same thing was done this year, but the council was fussy. Instead of passing the house bill a suffrage bill was introduced in the council and was passed by that body. While it is not the same bill, and the situation now is that each house has passed a suffrage bill and yet neither of them has been enacted into a law. It is not likely that the house will pass this council bill and the result will be that there will be no female suffrage in Arizona for at least two years.

The council also yesterday passed the Cowan bill which diverts the fees for articles of incorporation from the coffers of the territorial secretary into the coffers of the treasury. The vote on final passage stood ten in favor to two against it, those voting against being Ashurst and Moorehead, both democrats. The bill received the unanimous support of the republican members. Ashurst had previously promised to support the bill on final passage, but was not to be trusted. He was not responsible for any labor or other debts of the same which may accrue during the period of said bill.
